Superfund

We represent clients in all aspects of the Superfund/CERCLA liability process, including negotiation of administrative orders and consent decrees, defense of cost recovery actions, participation in multi-party cost recovery actions, and defense of enforcement actions brought by the United States or individual states. We have litigated matters involving liability, cost allocation, and indemnity issues. Our attorneys have a national practice and have served on steering and coordinating committees in Superfund cases in California, Delaware, Indiana, Louisiana, New Jersey, Ohio, Pennsylvania, South Carolina, and Texas. We have also brought and defended private recovery actions and contribution claims under CERCLA and tort and contract law that seek to secure reimbursement for costs incurred in remediating historic conditions. We have negotiated remedies for sites with contaminated waterway sediments and secured alternative funding for the responsible parties under the mixed funding provisions of the Great Lakes Legacy Act and the Water Resources Development Act.
