Joint Ventures/Hospital-Physician Collaborations

Our lawyers provide advice on health-related business transactions, such as structuring joint ventures between hospitals and physicians, forming and re-syndicating ambulatory surgery centers, physician employment, and structuring and operating other ancillary service providers, including diagnostic imaging centers. We are also experienced at unwinding joint ventures in the event that subsequent regulatory changes raise legal issues or frustrate the strategic purpose of the joint venture. We understand the complexities of hospital-based and freestanding arrangements, and we counsel clients on ownership/investment issues, structural and operational considerations, supervision requirements, and reimbursement concerns to ensure compliance with the array of regulatory issues that affect health care transactions. Most importantly, we listen to our clients and draw on our experience and creativity to provide solutions that achieve their business objectives.
