

Practice Contact

Scott J. Ziance
614.464.8287
sjziance@vorys.com

Economic Development and Tax Incentives

Our attorneys have broad experience serving both public entities and private businesses in all aspects of structuring, securing, implementing and maintaining federal, state and local economic development incentives. Our firm offers a core group of attorneys who focus their practices on economic development incentives, and depending on the needs of a particular economic development project, we may utilize attorneys with extensive experience in public finance, real estate, local government, environmental, zoning and land use, state and local tax, federal tax, and executive agency and legislative lobbying.

The breadth and depth of our capabilities have helped our firm to develop one of the largest economic development incentives practices in Ohio. We regularly have the opportunity to design cutting-edge economic development incentives structures and to influence state and local policies concerning emerging economic development incentives issues.

Our clients include political subdivisions, developers and expanding businesses, each of which has specialized needs in the area of economic development incentives. Our professionals have the experience and capability to respond to these specialized needs to create solutions for all types and sizes of clients.