Personal Injury

The loss of a loved one obviously has profound consequences, both emotionally and economically, for surviving family members. A catastrophic injury that significantly impairs a person's ability to earn a living and enjoy life also poses acute problems, and challenges, for the affected individual and his or her family.

We have helped many individuals and surviving family members obtain compensation for the losses associated with significant physical and medical injuries and deaths caused by defective products, motor vehicle accidents, fires, or the negligent acts of others. Our lawyers are experienced, tenacious, and skilled at investigating the cause of the injury or death, identifying potentially liable parties, retaining any necessary experts, developing damages models and evidence that properly account for all economic and emotional losses, and persuasively presenting our clients' position at trial.
