Patent and Trade Secrets Litigation

Technological innovation, and the application of patent laws to the development of new products and concepts, is crucial to the business of many of our clients. Our lawyers are skilled in using patent litigation to protect and enhance our clients' most vital assets. We draw upon the knowledge and experience of lawyers who specialize in both the patent prosecution and patent litigation areas to search for prior art, defend patents against validity challenges, and take other steps necessary to aggressively represent our clients' patent interests.

We also have prosecuted and defended trade secret misappropriation cases in the retail, manufacturing, and computer services industries, among others. Our experience in this area extends to cases that also include claims that employment agreements have been breached by a former employee, as well as cases that raise patent or copyright issues.
