

Health Care Litigation

Our health care litigators have the specialized knowledge and experience needed to address today's complex health care disputes. We understand the unique business and regulatory issues that affect our health care clients and regularly represent health care clients in resolving a broad array of health care disputes. Our clients include for-profit and non-profit providers of all types – from individual practitioners to institutional providers, group homes, hospitals, and joint venture hospital-physician collaborations – as well as academic medical centers, trade associations, pharmaceutical companies, insurers, and individuals seeking rights to treatment.

We routinely defend our clients' interests in court and before state and federal regulators on matters including regulatory compliance challenges, licensure issues, reimbursement-related challenges and contract claims, antitrust, fraud and abuse cases, government-initiated actions under the qui tam provisions of the False Claims Act, patient rights, complex commercial disputes, and other related issues that affect our health care clients. Our lawyers also recognize that the most successful resolution of certain health care disputes should occur without the expense and inconvenience of litigation, and are skilled in achieving such resolutions.

RELATED PRACTICES

- Antitrust and Trade Regulation
- Corporate and Business Organizations
- Government Relations
- Health Care
- Insurance
- Labor and Employment
- Litigation

ATTORNEYS

- G. Ross Bridgman
- Michael J. Bronson
- Michael J. Canter
- Karen A. Cincione
- Paul J. Coval
- Michael Scot Gordon
- Patrick M. Hagan
- Joseph W. Harper
- Jolie N. Havens
- Craig A. Hoffman

- Laura G. Kuykendall
- Peter A. Lusenhop
- Melissa J. Mitchell
- Anthony J. O'Malley
- Lisa Pierce Reisz
- Suzanne K. Richards
- Eric W. Richardson
- Gregory D. Russell
- Suzanne J. Scrutton
- Victor A. Walton, Jr.
- Glenn V. Whitaker
- James A. Wilson

Health Care Litigation (continued)