GOVERNMENT INVESTIGATIONS

Our government enforcement investigations group represents corporations, boards of directors, management and other individuals in connection with a broad range of government investigations, enforcement actions, criminal investigations, and litigation. We have been privileged to help companies of all sizes and their boards, audit and special committees, officers and directors, and other individuals with a wide range of administrative, criminal, regulatory, congressional and other sensitive government inquiries and investigations.

We know that government enforcement actions investigations can be complex, highly sensitive and time-consuming ordeals for any company. Coordination between criminal and civil regulatory authorities has increasingly blurred the line between criminal, civil and administrative offenses, resulting in heightened risks for companies conducting business, both in the U.S. and internationally. We defend corporations, directors, officers and employees against allegations in various business contexts and at every stage of the enforcement process, including federal and state grand jury investigations, trials and appeals. We handle investigations and civil and administrative proceedings brought by regulatory bodies such as the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission, Federal Reserve Bank, Consumer Financial Protection Bureau, U.S. Commodity Futures Trading Commission, Financial Industry Regulatory Authority, Federal Trade Commission and Internal Revenue Service, as well as federal and state banking and insurance regulators and state attorneys general throughout the United States. Our experience is wide-ranging and includes investigations related to:

- Accounting Practices

FALSE CLAIMS ACT AND QUI TAM

With expanding governmental program expenditures, fraud and abuse has become a top law enforcement priority. Federal agencies have aggressively escalated investigations and prosecutions of government contractors and health care entities. Increasingly, the vehicle for pursuing claims against contractors and health care providers is the federal False Claims Act (FCA), which allows cases to be brought by whistleblowers suing on behalf of the government against those alleged to have submitted false claims for payment to an officer of the United States. The government views the FCA as an ideal enforcement vehicle because it encourages private individuals to ferret out alleged fraud on behalf of the government, and it provides for treble damages. Many states also have enacted statutes that parallel the FCA.

We are one of the few firms in the country that has tried – and won – defense jury verdicts for government contractors in FCA cases. The Vorys False Claims Act practice has been selected as one of five Law360 Government Contracts Practice Groups of the Year.

Our experience in this area includes:

- Conducting internal investigations
- Advising corporations on the advantages and disadvantages of voluntary disclosure
- Negotiating with and convincing the Department of Justice not to intervene in civil fraud cases brought by qui tam relators
- Negotiating “global” settlements with the government, requiring the concurrence of the government’s civil, criminal and administrative authorities
- Preventing the suspension, debarment or exclusion of corporate entities or individuals from government contracts or grant programs
- Responding to subpoenas and defending individuals and corporations in criminal actions arising out of FCA cases
- Representing corporations in connection with congressional investigations related to the FCA
- Counseling corporations on the creation of compliance programs
- Preparing and conducting the defense at trial of False Claims Act lawsuits brought by individual relators and by the United States

Our attorneys also represent manufacturers, hospitals, retailers and other clients in connection with FCA matters, and have obtained dismissal of complaints involving the alleged failure to comply with military procurement specifications, claimed hospital overcharges of Medicare and Medicaid, and purported false claims related to government-owned, contractor-operated facilities. WHITE COLLAR DEFENSE

We represent individuals and businesses in criminal prosecutions, grand jury investigations and civil enforcement actions brought by state and federal agencies and states’ attorneys general. Our credibility with prosecutors enables us to minimize the disruption caused by these proceedings, often before charges are brought. If an indictment is filed, our attorneys advise on the trial risks and we maintain experienced trial counsel to defend.

We conduct internal investigations for companies facing internal or external allegations of wrongdoing, or desiring to audit proactively for potential misconduct. Our experience with many government enforcement agencies enables us to provide sound advice concerning the best course of action if wrongdoing is identified, including potential disclosure to authorities. We also assist clients in creating and implementing compliance programs designed to avoid problems.
