INSURANCE AND INSURANCE COVERAGE

We have an active and broad insurance litigation practice. Our trial lawyers represent clients in insurance-related disputes in state and federal trial and appellate courts across the country as well as in arbitrations, mediations, and other alternative dispute venues. Our clients include corporate, non-profit, and individual policyholders, as well as insurers, excess insurers, reinsurers, and their employees and agents, in the United States, Canada, Europe, and the United Kingdom.

Our engagements in this area run the gamut from individual lawsuits to sprawling class actions. Furthermore, those disputes involve a wide range of first-party and third-party insurance policies, including general liability (CGL), employment practices (EPL), environmental, directors and officers (D&O), professional liability, property insurance, health insurance, and life insurance policies and annuities. We also represent clients with respect to other kinds of insurance products, including intellectual property and technology policies, municipal liability policies, and policies for title insurers. In addition, we represent clients in cases challenging the actions of insurance companies and their employees as well as agents.

In addition to trial work, our lawyers regularly counsel our clients on a panoply of insurance-related issues, including insurance policy interpretation, application of insurance statutes, agent/broker issues, ERISA, and insurer bad faith claims.
