Our attorneys have advised clients on properties located in all 50 states. Our service offerings include traditional valuation review and litigation of real and personal property tax issues; tax exemption and/or tax incentive structuring, application and maintenance; processing of real property tax payments; assistance with tax accruals; and management of tax notices. In short, our service offerings are scalable to meet the property tax needs of our clients to both manage the property tax expense and planning as well as the administrative burdens associated with property taxes.

Real Property Valuation

Our tax attorneys work closely with appraisers, property managers, engineers and accountants to identify opportunities to help reduce our clients' property tax burdens. Once an opportunity for savings is identified, our attorneys, in concert with our clients and their advisors, develop the appropriate strategy to pursue the opportunity. Our goal is to ensure that the fair share, and only the fair share, of property taxes are being paid.

On an annual basis, our attorneys work with our clients to identify which properties should be reviewed. Factors to consider involve revaluation cycles by local assessors, new construction, significant changes at a property that could include market changes, decreases in occupancy, decreases in rental rates or government funding sources, casualties such as fire or wind damage or deferred maintenance issues that impact a property's value. Our process typically involves three stages:

1. A Review of Tax Assessments

Annually, Vorys reviews tax assessments for appropriate properties owned by our clients or where clients may possess the right to challenge the property tax assessments. These properties include those with changed values during the past year or where our clients have identified a need for a new review.

As part of this stage, Vorys:

- Works in concert with our clients to collect assessment data and financial and structural data for each property.
- Researches market data and consults with appraisers and others knowledgeable about market values.
- Evaluates appropriate legal authority to assess the legal issues that may arise in a challenge to the tax valuations, including questions regarding the classification of property as real or personal under state law.
- Reviews real property tax databases to determine if assessment records accurately reflect physical characteristics of land and structures, including new construction, remodeling, demolition and abandonment.
- Formulates and documents recommendations to the client regarding the assessed values and potential for tax savings.
- Reviews valuations of property partially or totally exempt pursuant to state tax incentive programs to ensure fair valuation when those programs expire.
- Evaluates whether to challenge the tax assessments and the appropriate forum for undertaking such a challenge. The ultimate decision as to whether to challenge an assessment always remains with our clients.

2. Appropriate Appeal of Tax Assessments

Once a client makes the decision to contest a tax valuation, Vorys represents them in seeking a reduced value. This appeal could be either an informal appeal to the local assessor's office or a formal filing of a complaint or appeal consistent with state law.

As part of this stage, Vorys:

- Prepares and files all documents necessary to initiate either the informal or formal review process. We also prepare and file all documents necessary to appeal any valuation decision until the client has decided to accept the tax valuation secured on its behalf.
- Identifies, interviews and secures fee quotes from qualified appraisers or other experts.
- Prepares for and represents the client before taxing authorities, reviewing boards and courts of law. This includes informal discussions, pre-trial conferences and mediations, trial, oral argument and post-trial conferences.
- Prepares and files legal memoranda or briefs with the appropriate authorities in support of the requested tax valuation.
- Represents clients in settlement negotiations with taxing authorities and other interested parties.
- Prepares and files any necessary documents to secure the agreed upon tax valuations.

3. Post-Appeal Support to Ensure Benefits from the Appeal Are Fully Received

Once a tax valuation is finalized, Vorys confirms that the correct adjustments are made by the taxing authority and secures the correct tax refund/credit.

Results from the recently concluded matters may identify opportunities for future savings for the property at issue or other properties. As part of our ongoing representation, we review the results with client personnel or advisors and identify additional opportunities for savings or additional properties that should be reviewed as part of the next annual review.
