Vorys partner Pam Bresnahan will be participating in a panel discussion titled Communications Law in the Digital Age. The panel is hosted by PLI and will take place on November 14-15.

She will be discussing the following topics:

- What happens when professional judgment and a client's litigation directions collide?
- Are porn trolls unethical? And, what about lawyer sock puppets?
- Do lawyers have a First Amendment right to blog about their clients' cases (and how do social media platforms create other problems for lawyers)?
- How should lawyers deal with media clients who gain access to privileged or classified information?
- What professional responsibility risks are created by lawyers as defamation targets (and plaintiffs)?
