Tony Weis, a partner in the Columbus office of Vorys, and Sachiyo Isoda Peterson, an associate in the Columbus office, were featured in a Columbus Business First story regarding the firm's approach to global and international business. Ms. Peterson, fluent in Japanese, and Mr. Weis, who works with Japanese companies regularly in his practice, discussed the importance of having multilingual attorneys on staff.

The story states: "Having someone such as Peterson, a capable attorney who speaks a client's language and understands his culture, is a sign of the times in an increasingly global business world."
